IV. Essay Question: Describe what you think is/are the biggest problem(s) facing human society in the 21st century, giving reasons for your opinion.

(解答例)

We often hear it said that the 21st century will be one of water shortage.

I agree with this opinion. I think that there are two reasons for this.

One is that we have had unusual weather patterns all over the world in recent years. On one hand, it rains heavily in some areas, which we experience even in Japan. On the other hand, they say that areas where we have less rain have been growing. No wonder we are running short of water.

The other is that as developing countries, like China and India, are more industrialized, they use more water. Consequently, ordinary people, especially poorer people at home, may be short of water. Regrettably, countries are developing at the sacrifice of people.

For the above reasons, we will be facing one of the greatest problems, water shortage in the 21st century.
